
Atom positions projected along the interface. The chains are drawn 10 Å further apart than they are; printed distances are the measured ones.